Students who show more than ordinary talent or who increase the number of lessons per week, may shorten the time, as advancement is determined by what is really accomplished rather than by time spent.

For a more detailed account of the methods employed in this department, see under Material and Methods of Instruction.

There are three courses in music: The course in Piano, the course in Violin, and the course in Singing. Students may receive a diploma on completing any course.

To students who show more than ordinary capacity for improvement, the length of time or the number of lessons may be reduced, as students will be advanced and graduated according to what they accomplish rather than to the number of lessons taken. Advancement in the course will be determined in a large degree by the ability and progress shown at the weekly recitals, and at the more public recitals at the close of each half-term. A record will be kept of the merits of every performance on these occasions, as well as of examinations in theory. Graduation will depend upon these records and upon the character and conduct of the candidate.

For a more detailed account of the methods of instruction employed in this department, see under Material and Methods of Instruction.

COURSE IN ELOCUTION.

In the early stages of the work much attention is given to the formation of correct habits of breathing and to the acquirement of a clear, resonant tone-quality that shall be free from throat effort. The department does not aim to give any series of voice gymnastics but merely to correct bad habits and form good ones. Perfect harmony should exist between the thought and the mediums by which it is expressed, viz., voice and gesture, and development in the two should go hand in hand. The pupil's power of expression is developed by appealing to his reasoning and imaginative faculties rather than to his powers of imitation. Selections adapted to the pupil's ability are assigned him. He is never forced into trying to portray emotions which he cannot comprehend. Pupils may take one to two private lessons per week of forty-five minutes each.

(To secure a certificate in any of these courses, the applicant must pass a satisfactory examination in Spelling, Penmanship, Arithmetic, English Composition, American History and Civics.)

MATERIAL AND METHODS OF INSTRUCTION

The aim of the Normal School is to furnish competent teachers for the public schools of the State. The mental equipment of a teacher consists of (1) knowledge of the subject matter to be taught, (2) knowledge of the laws of mental action, and (3) knowledge of those methods of imparting instruction and of moving the will which are in most complete harmony with the laws of mental action; this last knowledge may be either theoretical or practical. With the successtnl teacher it is both.

In this school the student receives his knowledge of subject matter in his daily study and recitations; he acquires an elementary knowledge of the laws of mental action by the study of psychology. In order to supply him with a theoretical knowledge of the best method of imparting instruction and of moving the will, we give regular instruction in Methods and School Economy, and History of Education. Finally to furnish him, as far as possible, with the needed practical skill, we introduce the Senior to the work of actual teaching in the Model School.

DEPARTMENT OF PEDAGOGY.

Psychology.

Daily recitations of forty-five minutes each, during the fall and winter terms, are required of the Senior class for Psychology.

The aim is to present the fundamental principles of the science in a manner so simple that the student can understand them, and in so practical a light that he may see their application in methods.

History of Education.

Daily recitations of forty-five minutes each, during the spring term, are required of the Senior class for the History of Education.

The aim is to acquaint the student with the origin and development of the theories and methods which he has adopted, to awaken in him an interest in the personal history and character of the great educators of the past, and, in general, to give him more intelligence and a deeper interest in matters pertaining to his profession.

The work consists of a study of selections from Seeley's History of Education, and lectures on the History of Education in America.

Logic.

Daily recitations of forty-five minutes each, for one term, are required of the graduate classes for Logic.

The aim is to acquaint the student with the exact use of terms, the classification of propositions, the rules of the syllogism and the different kinds of reasoning.

Moral Science.

Three recitation periods, weekly, of forty-five minutes each, for one term are required of the graduate classes for Moral Science.

The aim is to study some of the most prominent theories of different philosophers in regard to the standard of ethics, the psychological basis of these theories, and to consider a rational system of practical Ethics.

ANDREW THOMAS SMITH, Instructor.

Teaching.

THEORY.

The general philosophy of methods of teaching is given to the Seniors in conjunction with their psychology.

Two recitation periods, weekly, of forty-five minutes each, during the whole year, are required of the Junior class for Methods and School Economy.

The aim is to furnish students who may teach school before entering the Senior class, with such an empirical knowledge of methods, and such practical hints in regard to the management of a school, as they are most in need of as a preparation for their work.

PRACTICE.

Teaching in the Model School gives our students an opportunity to put into practice the theory and methods of instruction received in the course of professional work.

Twenty weeks or more of practice work is required of each Senior, who does his work under the constant direction of the critic teachers of this department. The student-teachers meet with the critic teachers to hear criticisms on their work. Individual criticisms are made and suggestions offered as needed. A single term of this practice will do more for a student-teacher than years of schoolroom work without advice or criticism.

Each student-teacher is also appointed critic for a definite period of time. A written report of his observations is then handed to the critic teachers for inspection, and whatever is particularly worthy of note or subject to criticism, is afterward discussed before the class.

The methods, the language, power of securing and holding attention, discipline, manner and teaching power, are noted and errors criticised.

Earnest effort is made to impress the fact that a poor disciplinarian can not succeed in the schoolroom, and every principle relating to discipline is seriously and carefully discussed. During the year there are Senior class exhibitions of teaching, after which each student has an opportunity to make criticisms or ask advice.

DEPARTMENT OF LANGUAGE.

Reading.

A class is organized at the beginning of each term. Selections from McGuffey's fifth and Harper's fifth and sixth readers are assigned for study. Supplementary reading from magazines and newspapers is occasionally employed. We recognize four aims to be kept in view: First, we aim to help the pupil acquire correct articulation, enunciation and pronunciation. This includes careful drill in the elementary sounds of language, in the phonetic analysis of words, and in diacritical marking. Practical work is given in the many uses of the dictionary; e. g., pronunciation, definition, use of gazetteer, biographical and other departments. Second, we aim to give the student power and facility in getting the thought of an author from the written words. We recommend the student to practice reading aloud in his room. This is better than the silent reading for the reason that the student who reads silently forms the habit of partially getting the author's thought without clearly recognizing the meaning of the words. By reading aloud, on the other hand, the inability of the reader to call the words readily, or to understand their meaning, is forced upon his attention. The third aim is to secure an adequate oral expression of the thought and spirit of what is read. Fourth, we seek to inculcate the love of good literature.

Elocution.

Each student in the Senior Class must appear twice before the school, once with an original composition and once with a declamation. The subjects for the compositions are chosen from a submitted list. The outline and the completed work are reviewed. We aim to give in this list such subjects as will stimulate thought and will result in the student's individual and clear expression of it. Although the pupil is allowed to choose his own declamation, yet he is advised to select something which shall have some literary value and so receive twofold benefit in committing it to memory. The pupils receive a number of private elocution lessons, without charge, while they are preparing this work for delivery. A certain number of the best are chosen to contest for the gold medals awarded by the school. This contest takes place on Tuesday evening of Commencement week.

MAE ESTHER HULSE, Instructor.

Spelling.

Thorough and persistent drill work in spelling is necessary. This necessity is especially evident in a Normal School that draws its students from so many localities where thorough and well directed primary work is as yet unattainable. Though this drill must be persistent, it need not be a "grind" as some seem to think. When accompanied by instruction in the correct pronunciation, meaning, and use of words it becomes a very interesting as well as a profitable method of the study of English. This interest is greatly increased by the introduction of variety into the exercises.

The class receives phonic drill; words are pronounced, syllables and accent noted and difficult and unusual words drilled upon. The lesson of the day is written and mis-spelled words are corrected; various ways of writing and correcting words may be used. They may be written in lists and marked by pupils, or in sentences dictated by the teacher. The teacher may pronounce the words and pupils write them in original sentences to be corrected either by the class or the teacher. Paragraphs from newspapers and other sources are frequently written from dictation. Frequent exercises in rapid oral spelling will be found helpful.

C. F. PALMER, Instructor.

English Grammar.

A preparatory class in grammar is organized for students that are not sufficiently advanced to enter upon the Junior work in this subject. For the Junior work two classes are organized, requiring one and two terms respectively, to complete the subject.

English Grammar is both a science and an art. The study of technical grammar, including, as it should, analysis of sentences, construction of words, and the application of principles in parsing, affords the best possible opportunity for the exercise of the reasoning faculties. If correctly presented, the study of grammar is excelled by no other study in affording material for mental discipline.

The study of grammar should be made practical, since ability to speak and write the English language is the end chiefly sought. Careful attention is given to the inflection of nouns, pronouns, adjectives, verbs and adverbs, the principal parts of irregular verbs, the classification and analysis of sentences, and the correct uses of words in sentences.

One recitation, weekly, is devoted to composition work, including letter writing, uses of capital letters, and, incidentally, the commonest rules of punctuation. Near the close of the term, each student is required to hand in a satisfactory essay upon a subject assigned him by the teacher. Not less than an equivalent of two recitations per week is given to the study of practical grammar.

The text-books in use are Maxwell's "Advanced Lessons in English Grammar," and Reed and Kellogg's "Higher Lessons in English." The former book is used for analysis of sentences, classification and inflection of the parts of speech, while the latter is used for composition work and the correction of errors in the use of English.

H. J. VAN NORMAN, Instructor.

Rhetoric and Composition

The work in Rhetoric and Composition, a term study, covers the following ground:

1. Punctuation. The important usages not noted in the course in grammar are considered. Illustrations of these uses are required. Paragraphs for the study of punctuation are assigned, and dictated test work given.

2. Directions for Preparing a Composition. This is to guide the student in choice of subject, collection of material, preparation of outline, and manuscript.

3. The Paragraph and its Purpose. Examples of isolated and related paragraphs are studied with reference to the topic sentence and the general laws. In this work three kinds of composition are taken: description, narration, exposition.

4. Sentences. The three rhetorical qualities, clearness, force, unity, are considered, likewise the rhetorical classification of sentences, and the force of each variety. Common errors such as the indefinite use of pronoun, squinting construction, the adverb for the adjective, misapplied modifiers, and false concords, are considered somewhat sparsely.

5. Diction. Correctness in choice of words. The value of a good vocabulary, and the means of acquiring it are discussed.

6. The text book used is Lewis' "First Book in Writing English."

Following the work under Section 2, the constant writing of paragraphs is required, with the aim of training the pupil in the use of clear, forcible, and appropriate English to tell exactly what he thinks.

FANNY L. SHELDON, Instructor.

English Literature.

The work in English Literature, a term study, is chiefly the study of four classics: Merchant of Venice, Silas Marner, Selections from the Sketch Book, Visions of Sir Launfal. These classics are read critically, with reference to their thought, style and allusions. Reports, original comments, and writings based on these classics are required. In addition to the study of the classics mentioned, the formation of our language through the fusion of the Norman-French and Anglo-Saxon is considered and the great periods of development of English Literature, the marked characteristics at certain periods, and some of the representative men in each, are studied.

The English required for admission to the best colleges is offered to college preparatory students.

FANNY L. SHELDON, Instructor.

Beginning German.

The objects to be attained are: (a) A good pronunciation; (b) ability to read simple stories; (c) ability to construct sentences applying the elementary rules of grammar; (d) ability to understand easy German when spoken.

The first year's work covers the following points: The alphabet; method of pronunciation; declension of articles, adjectives, pronouns, and such nouns as are readily classified; comparison of adjectives; conjugation of auxiliary verbs of tense and of mode, of weak, and the more usual strong verbs; the use of the commoner prepositions; the separable and inseparable, passive, reflexive, and impersonal verbs; the elementary rules of syntax; word order; and word formation.

The text books are: Joynes-Meissner's Grammar, Brandt's Reader, Hillern's Hoher-als die Kirche.

Advanced German.

Continued work in word-formation, word-order, use of the indicative, subjunctive, and infinitive modes, the tenses, participles, prepositions, and conjunctions, and the writing of exercises from Harris's German Composition.

Three classics are read: Wilhelm Tell, Maria Stuart, Hermann and Dorothea. The aim of the course is to acquire proficiency in more advanced German grammar and to translate ordinary German. Translation at sight and hearing is used throughout each course.

FANNY L. SHELDON, Instructor.

Latin.

The objects sought in the work in Latin are: 1. Ability to pronounce correctly and read intelligently the Latin text. 2. Mastery of inflection, so that number, person, case, mode and tense can be instantly recognized. 3. A working vocabulary. 4. Mastery of the Latin sentence and the ordinary principles of Latin syntax 5. Translation into idiomatic English.

JUNIOR YEAR.

Five recitation periods of forty-five minutes each, weekly, during two terms, required of Juniors.

Outline of work: Roman method of pronunciation, declension of nouns, pronouns and adjectives, comparison of adjectives and adverbs, conjugation of regular verbs, and of "sum," knowledge of the principal rules of syntax gained by writing the exercises in Collar and Daniel's "First Latin Book."

SENIOR YEAR.

Five recitation periods of forty-five minutes each, weekly, during the year, are required of Seniors.

Outline of work: Review of First Latin Book. Translation of the "Helvetian War." (Commentaries, Book 1, chapters 1-29). Syntax of nouns, pronouns, adjectives and verbs completed, conjugation of irregular verbs, word formation, the life of Cæsar, the Roman legion, geography of Gaul.

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS.

Arithmetic

In arithmetic three classes are formed, requiring one, two and three terms, respectively to complete the subject. The most advanced class begins at ratio, the second class, at percentage, and the third class, at fractions.

Special attention is given to some parts of the arithmetic; for example, fractions, denominate numbers, measurements, longitude and time, pure percentage and its various applications of profit and loss, commission, interest, discount and taxes. On the other hand there are some parts of the arithmetic which are seldom or never used after leaving school, as equation of payments, averaging accounts, savings bank accounts, alligation, annuities, circulating decimals, and arbitration of exchange, which are omitted altogether.

Every intelligent person admits the superiority of mental arithmetic over written problems as means of cultivating the memory, increasing the power of attention, and strengthening the faculty for concentration of thought. Hence it has been thought best to devote the equivalent of two recitations per week to the solution of mental problems.

In recitation, each topic under discussion is developed by a direct appeal to the reason without reference to any formal rule, while the rule is made use of only as a general deduction drawn from the solution of concrete examples.

H. J. VAN NORMAN, Instructor.

Elementary Algebra

The Junior course requires elementary algebra complete. All principles are demonstrated and fully discussed. Special attention is given to the following subjects: factoring, the solution of simple and quadratic equations, the binomial theorem, square and cube root, progressions, and proportion.

Higher Algebra

Higher algebra is required in the Scientific Course and in the Regular Normal Course. Daily recitations for two terms, of fourteen weeks each, are given to this subject.

Plane Geometry

Plane geometry is a Senior study, and two terms of fourteen weeks each are required to complete it. The classes have a recitation period of forty-five minutes each, daily. Special attention is given to the demonstration of original propositions, and the solution of problems.

Solid Geometry

Solid geometry is a term study. Recitations occur daily. In solid geometry as in plane, demonstrations and solutions of original propositions and problems are required.

Plane Trigonometry and Surveying

Many practical problems involving trigonometrical functions are solved. Demonstrations of the formulæ are required. The classes are given a drill in the applications of plane trigonometry to surveying. The transit and other necessary instruments are explained. Surveys are mapped and areas computed.

J. P. BREIDINGER, Instructor.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL SCIENCE.

The course of study in physical science has for its aim:

1st. To lead the student to acquire the power and habit of accurate observation of the facts of nature and the ability to draw from these facts legitimate inferences as to their causes and relations.

2d. To afford training in the expression, oral and written, of the student's conclusions in clear and forcible language.

3d. To relate everything, as far as possible, to the student's former and present experience.

4th. To make the work as elementary as may be, with a view to the student's use of it in teaching.

Geography—Descriptive and Physical.

The particular aim in view in the study of descriptive geography, is to fix in the mind such knowledge as the student may already have and as far as possible, relate such knowledge to his every-day experiences.

The topical method is used in teaching, and the following summary of topics may indicate the ground covered:

1. The form, size and motions of the earth.
2. Directions, positions and measurements.
3. Land masses, continental and insular, with their groupings.
4. Oceanic and inland waters.
5. Political divisions—comparisons with United States.
6. Routes of commerce, communication, and travel.
7. A more thorough and complete study is made of the United States.

Physical geography is restricted to the physical features of the earth, and the animals and plants which live upon its surface.

ELIZA J. BOYCE, Instructor.

Agriculture and Nature Study.

This course of instruction has been adobted for its obvious utility, especially to students who come, as so many of our students do come, from farming districts. By the adoption of this course, the authorities of the school have shown their recognition of the growing interest and increasing estimation of the value of good farming to the community and the country at large, and of the attractions of a life in the country. It is believed that when the young men and women are properly educated in these matters, higher estimation of the blessings of country life will stop the present unfortunate tendency to desert the farm and crowd the cities. It seems especially appropriate to a Normal school, where so many teachers of the country districts receive the best of their education. Whatever knowledge and inspiration is imparted here will be at once disseminated by the agencies of the district schools.

The studies of this course, with the exception of nature study, are not required, as yet, for graduation. It will be wholly optional with every student whether he take all the subjects laid down in the course, or a part of them, or none. The value of the work will be explained, and all, especially those who are expecting to teach in country districts, will be urged to pursue it.

The instruction will be imparted by the use of Bailey's "Principles of Agriculture," as a text-book, supplemented by lectures. Considerable attention is also given to the collateral work given at the end of each chapter of the text-book.

In the course in nature study which will, of course, be most universally attractive and useful, the work will be very largely of the nature of field work, each class taking one trip a week with the instructor.

Nature study, to quote Professor L. H. Bailey, a high authority on this subject, is "Seeing the things which one looks at and the drawing of proper conclusions from what one sees. Nature study is not the study of a science, as of botany, entomology, geology, and the like. That is, it takes the things at hand and endeavors to understand them, without reference to the systematic order or relationship of the objects. It is wholly informal and unsystematic, the same as the objects are which one sees. It is entirely divorced from definition or from explanation in books. It is therefore supremely natural. It simply trains the eye and the mind to see and to comprehend the common things of life; and the result is not directly the acquirement of science but the establishment of a living sympathy with everything that is."

C. F. PALMER, Instructor.

Physiology and Hygiene.

Five recitations per week, for one term, are required.

A finely mounted skeleton, complete, and a valuable manikin from the best French manufactory, have been furnished to the school. "Macy-Morris' Elements of Physiology," is the text-book used. The work includes the study of bones, articulations, muscles, the vascular, respiratory, digestive and nervous systems, elimination, animal heat, and the special senses. In the consideration of each of these subjects special attention is given to the hygiene of the body. The effects of alcohol and tobacco are noted. Of alcohol, the effect on the digestive, respiratory, vascular and nervous systems; its interference with proper oxidation and elimination. Of tobacco, the effect on the throat, digestion, circulation, the nervous system, and the special senses. Special attention is called to the narcotic effects of both alcohol and tobacco on the brain and through it on the will and the moral character of the individual. The fact is emphasized that the delicate tissues and organs of the child and youth are especially sensitive to the influence of stimulants and narcotics, and therefore sure to be injured by their use. The aim is to make the course popular, practical, and plain.

Special physiology is given Seniors in lectures on physical culture.

C. F. PALMER, Instructor.

Physics.

The students of the Senior class study physics during two terms of the year. The course consists of a series of experiments from Gage's "Introduction to Physical Science," selected with reference to ease of comprehension, and to illustrating the main principles and practical applications of the science.

These experiments are performed by the teacher and questions asked which lead the student to observe closely the conditions and results from which he is expected to draw his own inferences and state them in his own language. The student is expected to be familiar with the text, and questions and problems are given to test his knowledge.

Supplementing this work is a laboratory course. For this purpose the sections of the class numbering about thirty persons each, are subdivided into groups of four members each with a student assistant to supervise each group. This method affords close personal supervision of the work and also teaching practice for a considerable number of the class. The work is made strictly individual, no two persons being allowed to perform an experiment together. Each student is required to write in his note book a complete description of every experiment, illustrating each with a drawing.

The work of physics in the advanced course is along the same line but morel extended, and the student performs most of the experiments for himself.

I. M. GAYMAN, Instructor.

Botany.

Botany is studied by the Junior class during the fall and spring terms, about half of the time being devoted to the study of the text-book and the remainder to practica work.

A well-lighted room has been furnished with tables and instruments to serve as a botanical laboratory. The class is divided into sections sufficiently small to provide each student with a microscope and afford opportunity for personal supervision and suggestions from the instructor. The practical work with microscope includes the examination of seeds as to their structure, reserve materials, protection and means of dispersal; roots as to their nature, form and means of absorbtion; buds as to structure, nature of parts, protection and growth; leaves as to venation, form and uses; flowers, showing that their parts are stems and leaves metamorphosed to serve particular functions. While dissecting seeds the student is instructed to plant a window garden with seeds similar to the ones examined and study their mode of germination and growth. He is required to keep a complete record of all observations and conclusions, and to illustrate all essential points by drawings.

Each student prepares an herbarium of as many representative plants as time will allow, and thus provides himself with means for finding the names of unfamiliar specimens.

The aim of the course is to lead the student to see that the plant is a living organism, that the law of "the survival of the fittest" applies, and that the plant able best to protect itself, to adapt itself to conditions of climate and soil, surpasses its neighbor in the struggle for life.

I. M. GAYMAN,
C. F. PALMER,
Instructors.

Zoology (Including Entomology).

The Scientific class study zoology one term. The method is, so far as practicable, to study from observation. Animals and insects representing different types are carefully studied, also their characteristics and classification, and lists made by the student of those with which he is familiar, putting each in its proper place in the classification.

The course in entomology includes a study of insects as to morphology, development and metamorphosis in the living specimens. The following points are also touched upon: The doctrine of evolution and the criteria by which we judge the animal's rank; the theory of instinct; the voluntary and automatic movements; the principal organs with their functions, adaptations, corelations, and analogies.

C. F. PALMER, Instructor.

Geology.

The students of the scientific course give one term to the study of geology. For this study the school is well equipped. Our cabinet contains a fine collection arranged to illustrate lithology and historical geology. Besides, the surrounding region is almost ideal for excursions to examine the structure and arrangement of rocks and to collect specimens for private cabinets. The effect of frost in aiding to disintegrate rocks, of rivers in eroding their banks and depositing detritus and silt, and of erosion during the glacial period, are well illustrated by the rocks, streams, and hills in this section, and are visited, examined and discussed by the students.

I. M. GAYMAN, Instructor.

Chemistry.

One term is spent by the students of the scientific and post-graduate courses in the study of chemistry, the first half being devoted to chemical theory and the more common elements with their properties and symbols, and the equations representing their reactions. A sufficient number of selected experiments are performed by the teacher to illustrate the text. The latter half of the term is spent in individual work. The student performs a list of experiments recommended by the committee of ten for secondary schools, and writes a description of these, together with the equations representing the chemical reactions, in his note book.

Frequent quizzes and examinations are held to test his ability and accuracy.

C. F. PALMER, Instructor.

Astronomy.

One term is spent by students of scientific and post graduate courses in the study of astronomy.

The student is expected to acquire a correct notion as to the simpler methods and results of astronomical research. He acquaints himself with the facts as given in the text-book and verifies them as far as possible, observing the heavens, noting the positions and movements of the planets, and brighter stars, and tracing the principal constellations. The uses of the telescope and spectroscope are explained and illustrated.

The more important statistics are learned, the theories to account for the origin and structure of the universe, and the laws of planetary and cometary motions.

I. M. GAYMAN, Instructor.

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY AND CIVIL GOVERNMENT.

The work of this department gains importance from the fact that a knowledge of our history and institutions is considered a necessary precedent to intelligent American citizenship.

American History.

In American History, five recitation periods of forty-five minutes each, weekly, for twenty-one weeks, are required of the Junior class.

The objects sought are: (a) A knowledge of the leading facts in the political, social and industrial history of this country; (b) to show the relation to one another of events and movements, from the standpoint of cause and effect; (c) to create a desire for further historical study; (d) to teach patriotism.

Events are associated in their time and place relations, also by their relation to great historical characters. Biography is made prominent. Attention is given to the related facts in English history.

Reading from historical fiction, debates, map-drawings, and historical objects are employed as aids in the study of this branch.

The subject is taken up in the following natural order: Explorations, colonizations, inter-colonial wars, the revolution, Presidential administrations, civil war, events of later history.

Civil Government.

Five recitation periods, weekly, of forty-five minutes each, for a half-term (seven weeks), are required of the Junior class for civics. The subject is taken up as a supplement to United States history.

The course attempts a thorough analysis of the constitution of the United States, a comparison between the National government and the governments of the states, and of foreign countries, and a discussion of the principles of government, and of the reasons for the provisions of the constitution, and of the current events relating to civics.

General History.

Five recitation periods, weekly, for one term, are required of Seniors.

The aim of the course is to give a general knowledge of the history of Greece up to the time of its final conquest by the Romans; a clear understanding of the conditions leading to the establishment of the empire of Alexander the Great, and its influence upon succeeding history; a knowledge of the history of Rome up to the time of the fall of the Empire in the West; the movements of barbarian tribes, and the beginnings of modern European nations; the period of Charlemagne; and an outline of prominent facts in English history.

LAURA M. SHAW, Instructor.

DEPARTMENT OF GYMNASTICS.

The system taught is the Swedish gymastics. All students who complete a course for graduation are required to take regular lessons, for at least five terms, during the Junior and Senior years, unless excused on account of some organic disease. Gymnastic work is primarily for the weak, not for those already strong. The object is health rather than great muscular development.

Although the work is done in classes, special attention is paid to individual weaknesses. Students are requested to speak freely with the teacher concerning themselves that all may receive benefit and none injury from the work.

Gymnastics has its place in the school curriculum, not only for the improvement and maintenance of the health of the pupils, but also for its distinctive educational effects. The equal development of the cerebral hemispheres, the cultivation of concentrated attention, and of volition and courage, are possible to the teacher of educational gymnastics.

Each day's exercise will consist of introductions, arch flexions, heaving (hanging) movements, balance movements, shoulder blade movements, marching and running, abdominal exercises, lateral trunk movements, slow-leg movements, jumping and vaulting, respiratory exercises.

In addition to the practical work in the gymnasium, both the Seniors and Juniors are instructed in the theory and method of gymnastics. Also teaching of gymnastics in the model school is required of Seniors under the supervision of the teacher of gymnastics.

All pupils will be obliged to wear clothing suitable for the gymnasium—divided skirt and loose blouse for the ladies, and a negligee shirt for the men, and rubber soled shoes for all.

EDITH A. LOWNSBERRY, Instructor.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARTS.

Penmanship.

The time required of the preparatory class for penmanship is not specified. A definite amount of work must be accomplished.

The classes observe the following:

1. Suitable and healthful position of body.
2. A proper method of pen holding.
3. A movement regular, and as free as is consistent with good form.
4. A neat and business-like arrangement of the matter written.

Due attention is given to proportions, classifications, analysis of letters, etc., and special drill lessons are given in movements and methods of teaching.

The vertical system of penmanship has been introduced.

HANNAH T. JENKINS, Instructor.

Bookkeeping.

It is our purpose to give the student such an understanding of the general principles of double-entry bookkeeping as to enable him to make a practical use of the same in actual business transactions. The following course of study is followed:

1. A clear and definite idea of such terms as a business transaction, an account, debtor, creditor, resources, liabilities, net capital, net insolvency.
2. To be able to explain the use of a day-book, ledger, cash-book, order-book, sales-book, bill-book, check-book, and to readily and correctly record business transactions in these books.

3. To open and close an account.

4. To write and explain the use of all ordinary commercial paper, as orders, receipts, checks, drafts,—commercial and bank, sight and time notes—negotiable and non-negotiable, and indorsements of same, statement of accounts, bill of goods.

For the first several lessons the student is required to rule his own books from plain paper. Each student is required to hand in a complete set of books written from exercises dictated by the teacher.

Exercises will also be given in business letter writing: (a) Ordering a bill of goods; (b) inclosing payment on account; (c) acknowledging the receipt of payment on or in full of account.

JOHN H. LONG, Instructor.

Drawing.

Five periods, weekly, of forty-five minutes each, for two terms, are required of the Junior class in drawing.

The Prang system is taught. A plan of work for all grades is given and practiced. This plan includes the preliminary work of tablet and stick-laying, paper folding and cutting, and clay modeling; also representation, decoration, and construction.

Representation is the drawing of the type solids and of objects based on them, of natural leaves and flowers, and of costumed life.

Decoration includes the drawing of simple units of design, arranged in borders, rosettes, and surface coverings, copying of historic ornament and decorative designs, and of elementary work in original design. Three mediums are used for this work, lead pencil, pen and ink, and water color.

Construction consists of working drawings of the type solids and of simple objects, of patterns of the solids and of the solids truncated, and of drawings in perspective of points, lines, planes and their applications, as represented in the drawings of railroads, floors, houses; etc. The preliminary work in construction is done free-hand, followed by exact work with the instruments.

Simultaneous with the work in form is the work in color. This consists in the acquiring of a knowledge of, and in the use of the six principal colors and their intermediates, in five tones of each. The Prang assortment of colored papers is used in this work.

Graduating Course in Art.

A special course in art has been arranged requiring three years' systematic study of two lessons per week of forty-five minutes each, or of two years' work of three lessons per week of forty-five minutes each.

A diploma is awarded to the students who complete this course. Students are required to take a thorough course in drawing before they are allowed to do any work in color. They are encouraged to become self-reliant by doing as much as possible for themselves.

Students may enter at any time and take such of the following branches of art as they may choose: Drawing from the antique, painting from the flat and still life in oil and water colors, and sketching in pen and ink.

The school is well equiped with easels, drawing boards, a fine assortment of casts from the antique and of studies for oil and water colors.

HANNAH T. JENKINS, Instructor.

Music.

The students are required to pass a satisfactory examination in the elementary principles of vocal music.

A complete knowledge of all scales, keys, signatures, clefs, different kinds of measures, notes, rests, etc., is required. Much attention is given to ear training, writing intervals, singing intervals that are called for, and to the ability to be true hearers of music.

Easy children's songs, college songs, and some sacred songs are taught.

Seniors will be required to give instruction in this as in other subjects in the model school.

WILLIAM T. SCHNEIDER, Instructor.

GRADUATING COURSE IN MUSIC.

Vocal.

The method employed in the instruction in vocal music, is a combination of the Italian and German methods. Particular attention is given to tone placing, correct breathing, true intonation, clear enunciation, and general artistic song rendering.

The pupils are encouraged to give a certain portion of their time to reading musical literature. The object of the course is to awaken a desire for accurate musical ability and an inspiration that will lead them to further advancement.

Pupils beginning vocal music are advised to arrange their time so as to take four or five short lessons a week in place of one or two long lessons, as time spent alone is liable to be in some degree wasted.

When two students request it, lessons will be given them together as a class. This method has some advantages besides being less expensive. Each pupil receives individual attention one-half of the time and has the opportunity of hearing the corrections or suggestions made to the other pupil. This is of value to the pupil who intends to teach as in this way he learns to correct errors other than his own.

Piano.

The method employed in the piano department is a combined form of the Virgil Clavier School, Mason's Touch and Technic, and Matthew's Graded Studies for the Piano. By the use of this method, the correct hand position on the keyboard is acquired, a good technic developed, rapid sight reading is attained, true musical feeling cultivated, and a foundation laid for a general musical education. The advanced pupils are carefully instructed in the work of the best composers, many of which works they are required to memorize. Since the aim of the music department is to prepare pupils for some public work, aside from mere teaching, all students are required to appear often at the weekly recitals. No pupil is allowed to graduate and receive the school's certificate unless competent to give a satisfactory recital in public.

Violin.

The method emplayed in violin instruction is a combination of French and German methods. Particular attention is given to an easy, correct hand position on the violin, a flexible, loose bowing as applied to both the wrist and arm, perfect intonation, breadth of tone and style, and general finish. The works of the best composers are studied and memorized with a view toward acquiring a good technic and true musical playing. Opportunities are given for ensemble playing, such as duo, trio, quartette, and obligato work.

WILLIAM T. SCHNEIDER,
ALICE HOBART,
Instructors.

DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS.

In this department the student is brought into touch with the actual business forms just as fast as his progress in the subject will justify. He is prepared, as in the best Business Colleges, for office or counting house.

In the stenographic department the Graham system of stenography is used; and in typewriting, students are made familiar with the standard instruments and are required to attain a rate of speed demanded of graduates in the best schools of typewriting Touch typewriting is one of our specialties.

LOCATION, BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS.

The Normal School buildings present a noble and imposing aspect. The school grounds have an area of ten acres. The lawns about the buildings are beautifully laid out and covered with a great variety of forest trees.

South Hall.

This is a brick structure, one hundred fifty feet in length by fifty feet in width. In this building are the men's dormitories, the circulating library, reading room and reference library, six recitation rooms, and the text-book library. This building, formerly the old seminary, was enlarged and remodeled in 1889. One hundred fifty feet North, and the same distance East, of South Hall, stands the North Hall.

This building is in process of complete reconstruction. The cut represents it as it will be when finished, one of the finest school buildings in the country. It is two hundred seventy feet long by one hundred feet wide, and five stories high. It contains the Principal's office, dormitories for the women, reception rooms, suite of rooms for the Art and Music departments, an elegant dining room large enough to seat five hundred, an elevator, the kitchen, bakery, etc. Two stories of an ell, completely removed from the other rooms, are set apart as an infirmary. They are furnished with every appliance for the sick. The dormitories on every floor of both buildings are supplied with bath tubs, and everything needed for health and comfort. All the buildings are heated by steam, lighted by electricity, and supplied with fire escapes of the best construction. The cost of the North building when completed and furnished, will not be less than $150,000. Midway between the North and the South building is

Alumni Hall.

This is a brick building, fifty-four by one hundred seventeen feet, three stories high. It contains the Model School rooms, recitation rooms, the society rooms, and a concert hall which occupies one entire story. This building was completed in 1886 at a cost of $25,000. In the rear of the South building stands the Gymnasium.

This is a fine structure; it is a frame building, fifty by one hundred thirty feet. It contains a large drill hall, fifty by one hundred feet, and four spacious rooms adjoining, used for dressing rooms, etc. The drill hall is well furnished with apparatus. This building was erected in 1888 at a cost of $7,000.
